Investing in the City Lessons from 61 light rail projects

PROGRAM

16.30 Servering

17.00 Foredrag

av Dr. Rob van der Bijl

Invited speaker Dr. Rob van der Bijl is an urban planner and independent consultant, researcher and designer, working on intersections of urban planning, culture and technology. Rob is the author of "Investing in the City – Lessons from 61 light rail projects". Investing in the City addresses the importance of light rail as efficient means of transport, and as prerequisite for urban (re)development and its economic, environmental and social assets. The benefits of light rail are explained and methods of incorporating them in decision-making are presented by using a series of cases. Investing in the City addresses reasons for failures of light rail projects as well as lessons to be drawn to overcome them.
